MR. SNOWDEN,

What is subjoined suits me. I won't say you are the best Christian of the two—that being problematical, neither of us have been ever burthened with our good deeds—nevertheless, I wish you would give it admission.— It was written before you or I were born, and will not demerit your paper. I mean the extract—not its introduction.

B C D

Submission to the Divine Will.

Whilst thou, my God, commandst her stay, My weary'd soul would fain get loose:
Fain would she tread the milky way,
And take the harp, and learn its use.

At first I think her wish divine, Till reason checks the audacious thought;
Then I compare her will with thine, Perceive, lament, and own my fault.

'Tis true, a thousand different ills Vex and distract my spirits here: Now sin my breast with sorrow fills, Now woes of worldly grief appear.

Yet were my troubles greater far, Since sovereign goodness thinks them fit, I should not murmur, not despair, But crave assistance, and submit.

Not all the visits of thy rod Should make me long from life to fly:
'Tis more to reverence my God,
To love his will, than wish to die.

O could I reach the happy state, Th' important lesson could I learn,
To be contented with my fate,
To suffer change without concern!

But reason here disclaims her pow'r, And nature too her help denies:
In Eden only grows the flow'r, And grace alone conveys the prize.

O speak thy love, thou friendly voice, Thou God who dwell'st in men below!
O speak! and let my soul rejoice With joys which none but children know.

Assist my faith with clearer views, And frequent signs of favor give;
Then, tho' perhaps I death may chuse, Yet shall I too be pleas'd to live.

GOD IN ALL.

Thou thoughtless, weak, and guilty fear, When sudden bursts the thunder round, Awe-struck, an angry God they hear, When rumbling earthquakes rock the ground.

Then, with religious fear impress'd, And trembling heart to him they pray, Whom they behold in terror dress'd, His outstretch'd vengeful arm to stay.

But the reflecting mind serene,
The great Eternal doth adore, In nature's mild and tranquil scene, As in the elemental roar.

It views him in the brightest day, Gleams through the Heavens the source of light;

It views him when with silver ray
The varying moon doth deck the night.

It views him in the sunny shower, As in fresh dews the flowers grow;

It views him in the smallest flower, As the huge rock's tremendous form.

It views him in the breeze of spring, At when the force of nature blows;

It views him in the beetle's wing,
And views him in the heavenly bow.

It views him in the riv'let's bed, Abbe as in the billowy main;

And upon Etna's burning head, It views him on the verdant plain.

Through animated nature views With every various form combin'd;

But chief, where man's superior powers, It views him in the reasoning mind.

It views, unobscured and pervade All nature, his eternal power;

Th' incomprehensible displayed And God unseen in all adores.

SATURDAY MONITOR.

"I AM THE GOOD SHEPHERD."

JESUS CHRIST, in this beautiful comparison, no doubt intended to impress his followers with a sense of that unwearied care, solitude and deep interest, with which he should always watch over them. If we reflect upon the various and tender offices which necessarily distinguish a good shepherd, we shall be ready to acknowledge that Jesus Christ is particularly entitled to that character.

It is the delight of a good shepherd to be ever present with his sheep; to make himself known to them, that when he calls they may hear his voice. He loves to increase his fold, and it can never appear too large for his unremitting care.— Jesus Christ not only delights to be present with his sheep, but has promised that he will never leave them. To make himself known to them he has displayed himself in the most amiable and attractive point of view, by which they are ever ready, when he calls them, to obey his word. That his fold may be always increasing, he not only invites but solicits every one to come to him; and when he has once prevailed upon any, he endeavors to secure them by continual and repeated acts of mercy.

A good shepherd will also be prepared to guard his sheep from every approaching danger; to protect them from enemies who may destroy, or thieves who may steal them from him. Jesus Christ not only preserves his sheep from those worldly foes who would afflict and destroy them, but from that great enemy of souls who is ever watchful to entice them to himself. Again, it is the duty of a good shepherd to feed his flock; to lead it to the water brook and refreshen it, by administering to its thirst.
Jesus Christ continually feeds his with the "bread of life." He conducts his sheep to "living streams," by which they shall never thirst; which "shall be in them a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

It is another tender office of a good shepherd constantly to review his flock, and if any one be missing, he will go himself in search of it, and though fatigued by exertion, he will still persevere, till having found it he takes it into his arms and returns it to the fold. Jesus Christ has an ever watchful eye over his beloved flock.— He searches his strayed sheep with unwea-ried assiduity; he follows it whithersoever it wanders, and will not quit it; he calls to it and stretches forth his arms to welcome it; and when it repents and turns to him, he receives it into his bosom and rejoices over it.

In the last place, a good shepherd will not hesitate to risk his life for his sheep; he will expose himself, to those perils which threaten them, and will ward off with his own arm, or receive it into his own bosom, the blow which is aimed at them. Jesus Christ has not only exposed himself to trials and dangers unexampled, but to save his sheep from impending ruin, he voluntarily laid down his life for them; to rescue them from the wrath which they merited, he braved all perils, and that they, through him might obtain everlasting life, he became as a lamb himself, and was carried without a blemish, a sacrifice to the slaughter.

In three various and affectionate duties which illustrate a good shepherd, Jesus Christ has ever delighted to distinguish himself. He is his sheep with a tenderness, which not even their frequent a-lienations from him have power to diminish. He constantly studies their number, and delights to collect them together, that he may place himself in the midst of them.
He makes himself acquainted with all their wants, pities their infirmities, and never refuses his aid, when their own strength cannot sustain them. He is never perplexed in discovering the true sheep which belong to himself; he knows them by their dependence upon him, their entire and meek submission to his will, and their love for one another. He diffuses his own spirit over them, which is communicated by one to another, and by which they are all equaly emulous of pleasing and imitating their divine master. They can encounter no danger, however great, from which he is not ready and able to extricate them, the sorrow from which he will not relieve them.

Who is there that would not become the sheep of this good shepherd? Who would not accept the offers which are continually made to draw every one into his fold? Jesus Christ is the best master, in that he is never fatigued in the discipline of his sheep; they are often obstinate, but he will not be discouraged; they are refractory, but he is always merciful; he is never provoked to quit them, by which they would lose the path through which he has led them, by some scattered about, and fall an easy prey to every snare that was laid for them. He therefore continues at their side, instructing admonishing, and giving them comfort; and having led them through green pastures upon earth, he will at length bring them to the garden of an heavenly paradise, where they shall reap to themselves an everlasting harvest.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

(VIA NEW-YORK.)

London, March 23.

We received last night French & Dutch papers to the 16th and 18th of this month; they are in general uninteresting. Russia has openly acknowledged all the evils entailed on her by her subservience to France and has proclaimed a national bankruptcy by an Ukase, which the Monitor acknowledges to be remarkable.

The miniature portrait of Bonaparte, which he sent to the princess Maria Louisa is set in 16 solitaires, each of which is estimated at 30,000 florins.

By a Heligoland mail, arrived this morning, we have received German letters, and papers to the date of March 11. By these it appears that the speculations on the continent, are strongly in favor of an alliance, offensive and defensive, between France and Austria, the object of which is to compel Turkey to enter into the general league against this country, and shut our commerce out of the ports of the Levant. It is also stated, that Prussia has been called upon by France to be prepared to engage in a war with any north-west power, in allusion it is supposed to Russia.

March 24.

Price of Stocks this day at 1 o'clock: 3 per cent. cons. for money, 68 15-28; acc.
68 7-7.

American papers to the 20th ult, arrived in town yesterday.

The question on the comparative disadvantages of war with Great Britain and France, has occasioned much discussion in Congress, and indeed throughout the United States; and we are happy to find a more just disposition to appreciate the consequences of war with this country, than has hitherto been displayed in America, begins to be prevalent. The resolutions of the local legislature of Massachusetts, on the dissolution of Mr. Jackson, refer to this subject, and cannot fail we should hope, to make a due impression on every sober-minded man in the U. States.

Letters received yesterday from the coast of France state, that all the American property seized in the several ports of that country to the 9th instant had been sold, & the proceeds paid into the French treasury.
The amount is said to be considerable.— It is added that general Armstrong on receiving a notification to this effect from the French minister, sent back a strong remonstrance on the subject, which was however, expected to be attended with no good effect. Bonaparte, we believe, next to ourselves, hates the Americans most cordially; we only wonder that any person in the U.
S. can be so blinded by their partiality to France, and by their prejudices against this country, as to see that if we should fall under the power of France, America could not exist for six months as an independent state.

Mr. Elliot, who takes out the dispatches from Mr. Pinckney, in the John Adams, has left town, and that frigate will sail the moment he arrives on board.

On the subject of the adjustment of differences between this country and America, we have little to add to the communication that every thing is done as far as it can be done on this side of the water. The present violence of France, which we have above stated, we hope will have a more powerful effect in producing the ratification of the provisional arrangement concluded between Lord Wellesley and Mr. Pinckney.

April 2.

Three Gottenburg Mails arrived last night. The French, under the pretence of an attack upon Zealand and Bornholm, meditated by us, are to occupy Holstein. It will be found, no doubt, when they have taken possession of it, that they have occupied it, not to preserve it for the Danes, but to wrest it from them, and to keep it themselves.

Sir Samuel Hood has passed the Darda-nells, and is now cruising in the Black Sea. The Russians of course dare not show themselves out of port.

The repudiated empress Josephine, intends, that is, has been commanded, to quit France, and retire to Italy.

The king of Prussia has issued a decree, by which, from the first of April no vessel from an European port shall be admitted into the Prussian ports, if her cargo consists of any other articles than such commodities and products as are admissible according to the commercial system. Other cargoes are the only articles accepted under this regulation.

Colonial and extra European produce to be imported by sea only from America ports. We have inserted in another part of our paper a letter from the French minister of the interior, relative to the execution of these measures. It is hoped all commercial intercourse between this country and the continent will be rendered impracticable.— The coast of Pomerania, and from the Elbe to the Scheldt, are to be occupied by the French troops.

We received this morning the following letter of a very late date, from Heligoland, giving an account of the French having taken possession of the Isle of Newwerk, at the mouth of the Elbe, for the purpose of preventing an intercourse with Hamburg.

Heligoland, March 27.

We have just received the unpleasant news of the French having taken possession of the Isle of Newwerk, in the river Elbe, which will cut off communications with Hamburg; the French officers are very thick all along the coast.

Admiral Harvey was restored to his rank in consequence of a memorial to the king.

Dover, April 1.

Yesterday a French lugger was seen to take an American ship and brig at the back of the Sand; the signal being made at little Cornhill, two brigs and a schooner got under weigh and pursued them, and it is said that the French lugger has been taken and sent to the Downs.

April 4.

Our letters from the opposite coast are to Saturday. The subject of peace is resumed on the continent, and spoken of as a probable event fully expected, and as a necessary consequence of the new matrimonial connexion of Bonaparte.

The Dutch papers contain nothing but accounts of the magnificent operations for the imperial marriage. The smallest window in the streets of Paris from the gate of Mailloit to the Place de Caronde, is hired at enormous prices to see the cavalcade.

The Prussian decree, adopting the French prohibitory system, is to be put in force the first of July.

FALMOUTH, March 31.

The American brig Prince Maddox, from Norfolk, has been sent into Fowley by the privateer Jubilee.

April 5.

We yesterday received additional sets of foreign papers, but their contents are unimportant. Their principal features continue to be the details of the journey of the new empress of France. As Strasburg, where she arrived on the 23d, she every where shewed herself to the people, and is said to have been much admired; and on the following morning she proceeded on her journey to Compiegne, at which city (says Berthier) she was very anxious to arrive.— At that place she was received by Bonaparte; and on the 30th they were to reach St. Cloud; and the 31st was the day appointed for the formal solemnization of the imperial nuptials. This event our readers already know, was announced by a general firing along the coast some days since. By a neutral vessel arrived at Hamburg, we learn that great rejoicings have also taken place in Holland on the same occasion, the people of that country indulging in the fond hope that the event may lead to a general peace.

April 5.

This day arrived a mail from Cadiz and one from Lisbon, brought to Falmouth by the Princess Minny Packet, in twelve days from the former port.

The Portuguese papers are principally occupied with idle rumors from Spain, detailed with their usual gravity, altogether unworthy of notice.

April 6.

The proceedings of the house of commons last night, on Sir Francis Bouverie's case, to which, as our readers will perceive, we have paid considerable attention, cannot fail to be read with considerable interest by persons of every description, whatever may be their political opinions.

At the early hour of ten o'clock yesterday morning all the avenues to the house were blocked up by crowds of people eager for admission. On the doors being opened at the usual hour, the gallery was instantly crowded almost to suffocation.— The press was the most excessive we have ever witnessed, but we are happy to add that no accident happened. The lobby remained crowded during the whole of the night.

An extraordinary number of constables were on duty to preserve order, and, if we are rightly informed, the horse guards had received orders to hold themselves in readiness, to be called out in case of any necessity.

The debate lasted till past seven o'clock this morning. In the course of the debate Lord Falkland concluded a speech in opposition to the resolutions, by moving that the house do proceed to the other orders of the day, after a long and in some respects, very animated discussion. This motion was negatived, on a motion of 271 to 80. The resolutions were then adopted, after which sir Robert Salisbury moved, "That sir Francis Burdett be committed to the tower." Upon this motion Mr. Sheridan moved as an amendment, "That the house do now adjourn;" but on a division the amendment was lost, and the motion for the commitment was carried, the numbers being 199 to 153.

Sir Francis who was at his house in Pitt-street, was immediately informed of the decision by his brother, Mr. Jones Burdett, who had been in the gallery during the whole of the debate. The sergeant at arms arrived in Piccadilly with the speaker's warrant, nearly at the same time with the baronet's brother, and proceeded to the tower, after sir Francis had taken leave of his family; he and his brother left the house with the sergeant at arms.

The letters by the Gottenburg mails were delivered yesterday. They confirm the account we have already given from the Swedish papers, of the introduction of French troops into the fertile province of Holstein. No doubt is entertained, that it is the intention of Bonaparte to take possession of the entire peninsula to the northern extremity of Jutland. The following are extracts from the private communications made by that opportunity.

"Gottenburg, March 23.

"We are in daily expectation here of the arrival of the French ambassador; and when he appears we have much reason to apprehend that new and severe restrictions will be imposed on our commerce."

Same date.

"There have been 36 ships seized at Petersburg, and there is very little chance of the sequestration being taken off from any of them. Eight of these with their cargoes are already condemned."

The confiscations above alluded to, are attributed to two causes; the remonstrance of the French ambassador, on the encouragement given to, what he thinks fit to denominate illicit trade, and the interposition of the American minister, Mr. Adams, to prevent the abuse of the protection afforded by the flag of the United States. The following letter is of the latest date from Petersburg direct, but it does not mention the sequestration of any vessels.

Petersburg, March 5.

"The rumor of closing the Baltic against neutrals is once more revived. To this proposition Russia will be very unwilling to consent, unless compulsory measures are adopted by the French minister here. It is said that Sweden and Denmark have already consented, but no reliance is to be placed on the statements."

"It is a matter of great doubt whether even American vessels during the approaching season, will be allowed to enter Riga and the other Russian ports. It is reported that Mr. Adams is against it, if the many frauds practised on the flag of the U. States, be not avoided, and if they do not come without licences from Great Britain. Of such vessels, he himself examines all the papers, and rejects them if there be the least ground of suspicion."

"Other matters remain much as they were when I wrote to you last. The emperor it is understood has changed his mistress for a Russian lady, who has the same influence over him as her predecessor, and who is equally under the control of the French minister and his party."

MR. SNOWDEN.—In a late Boston paper is the following

Cure for the Ague.

"Let the person when the cold fit is coming on, eat the whole of a Seville orange, without stopping—and if he has a return of it blame me." &c.

As a counter part I send you the following:

Come take my pills,
They cure all ills;
Fast, present, and to come;
Take 'em and try,
And if you die—
Never believe me more.

Nil Admirari! Her.

MR. SNOWDEN,

I am old, yet I have not ceased to wonder at the strange occurrences of this strange world.

Incredulity will seem excusable, if we examine the various impositions afforded to our observation, and experience, almost every day of our lives; from which even Laz, and perhaps (even more wonderful still) Physic, have not altogether escaped censure. I have experienced somewhat of both; and the following occurred to me, as my experience dictated, of one of them, on reading your extract from an Ohio paper, of a "Lawyer's Advertisement," viz.

"R. DOUGLASS

"Intends practising Law in Chillicothe—if he can get any thing to do. He intends to be honest likewise!"

A Lawyer honest! that seems wondrous new, 'I would do a man's heart good, to find it true. For by whatever I have seen, or heard, Another wonder of the world's appear'd."

Arrived at Boston on Wednesday, ship Java, Messervy, from Smyrna, Gibraltar, and Madeira, 33 days from the M. where she was taken and carried in by the English, and cleared by the interposition of the American consul—the plea for taking her was because she had duck on board. At Smyrna Jan. 28, ship Argo, and brig Reward of Salem, waiting for a market. A war between the French and Turks was expected. Capt. M. stopped off the rock of Gibraltar, 23d March, and was informed in the Gut by an English cutter, 3 hours from Gibraltar, that the French had been under the guns of Gibraltar and that a skirmishing party succeeded in destroying one of the batteries about the Spanish lines; and that the French held possession of Perifu, in the Gut, and that a great number of privateers were off that place: several were off Tangier, among them was one of 14 guns. Capt. M. lay off there 10 days and while there a large expedition came through the Gut with transports and troops, about 30 sail, bound to Cadiz from England. Died yesterday, Mrs. ELIZABETH RAMSAY, in the 69th year of her age.—In polished, intelligent, agreeable manners, mildness of temper, generosity and benevolence of character and unaffected piety, she was excelled by few—born and educated in one of the most respectable families of Virginia—throughout a long life she displayed with complacency and dignity, the advantages derived from such a birth and education—fulfilling with exactness and propriety every duty of child, wife, parent, friend, neighbor and mistress, in the most exemplary manner—and closed her days after bearing a long and painful illness, in the most patient meekness, in the thorough belief and confident hope of eternal happiness through the mediation of the blessed saviour of mankind.

OF WASHINGTON CITY.
Author of the Lawyer and Child of Feeling.
The celebrity of this author's "LAWYER," and "CHILD OF FEELING" induced the publishers to engage in this work, and without detracting from the merits of the former, feel themselves justified in saying that his GLENCARN is superior to either. It is submitted without further recommendation, with a wish that the American readers may give further encouragement to this young gentleman's endeavors to entertain, instruct and moralize his fellow citizens, in a way seemingly well calculated to attract their attention.

Valuable Property for Sale.
I WILL sell my farm, One Hundred and thirty acres of land, situated in the county of Loudoun, state of Virginia, containing 100 acres of about 200 acres of which are covered with pine and oak timber of the first quality. This estate part of the land will, under a judicious system of cultivation, yield fine crops of Indian corn, wheat, oats, barley, hemp, flax and clover, and the numerous kinds of artificial grasses the pasture yielding wild sharon and other natural herbage affords with the woodland, a fine range for sheep and mixed cattle. This land is situated nearly equidistant from Alexandria, Baltimore and Norfolk. From the city of Washington to the Bay there is not on either side of the Potomac, a more valuable tract of land of equal dimensions—the value of the timber, the richness of the soil, the facility with which its produce can be conveyed to three opulent commercial cities, will amply reward the exertions of the experienced and industrious farmer. It has several springs of excellent water; and the adjoining creek and river abound with fish, wild fowl and game.
The purchaser may be accommodated with the stock and farming utensils on easy terms. Amongst the stock is a small flock of about 100 fine wool sheep. A sample of their fleece has been sent to Philadelphia, where from the fineness and softness of its staple, it will bring from 70 to 80 cents per pound, if proper care be taken of the sheep in winter. And by crossing this breed with Spanish Merino Rams, it is the opinion of many respectable farmers, that the wool produced from the crossed breed will be equally valuable. In every point, to that of the best Spanish sheep.
I will also dispose of a small piece of land about two and a half miles from town, being part of a tract known by the name of STUMP HILL—it contains 12 acres, 1 of which are cleared and well enclosed; part of that which is cleared has produced luxuriant crops of clover for three years successively. There are on it a small unfinished FRAME HOUSE, a net for negroes; some apple and peach trees; and a perpetual spring of good water. The situation is high and healthy.

Also a handsome convenient dwelling house now in the occupancy of Mrs. McKenna, with a good cellar, kitchen, smoke-house, stable &c. &c. It is situated in a healthy and agreeable part of the Town. The above described property is perfectly free from all incumbrances, and the title is unquestionable. Cash, or Bank stock of any of the Banks in the territory of Columbia and Baltimore, will be expected in part payment; a liberal credit will be given for the remainder. For further particulars apply by letter to the subscriber at the Bank of Alexandria.
